ACH'S DEFENSE OF ABE RUEF.

Witnesses Speak for Over Six Hours.

Grifting Supervisors Scored Relentlessly.

Wouldn't Take Life of Cur on Testimony.

DISSEMINATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT: SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—"You have spoken six hours and twenty minutes," said Judge Lawrence, "and you have not yet taken the life of Cur on testimony."

"Your honor, I could talk for six hours and twenty minutes more," said Ach, "but I am tired."

The witness of Judge Lawrence and the jury of the chief counsel for Ach, who was grifting supervisors, stood all day before the jury that will tomorrow receive for consideration the testimony and argument for and against him on a charge of bribing former supervisors to secure the award of an overhead trolley franchise to the United Railroads.

It was not until the afternoon session that Ach took up the scrutiny of the prosecution's witnesses. Dividing them into groups, according to the order of the chief of summary, he was not without success in indicating to the jury that the testimony of each and every one, dealing with the charge of each summary, was not reliable. He was not without success in indicating to the jury that the testimony of each and every one, dealing with the charge of each summary, was not reliable.

SCHINDLER ARRESTED FOR STEALING WOOD.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICO, Dec. 8.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Portly dragged from their homes and taken on a wild automobile ride to Willows, thirty-five miles across the valley, four officials of the Northern Electric Company are under arrest today on the charge of stealing wood.

The defendants are: R. D. Schindler, general manager of the company and formerly general manager of the Huntington lines at Los Angeles; Melville Dozier, assistant general manager; Charles Moran, road master, and Conductor Colson.

The arrests were made by Sheriff Bailey of Glenn county, who came here last night with the warrants. The officials are charged with taking some wood that belonged to a Japanese contractor, who had stacked it along the road.

When the sheriff went to Schindler's house, that official notified his attorney by telephone. In a few minutes almost every lawyer in Chico was at the scene. They tried to argue and secure the release of the defendants, but to no avail. Finally they forced Schindler and Dozier and the other two into his big automobile, and ordered the chauffeur to speed to Willows.

Schindler declares he will sue the sheriff, as he had the wood hauled away, believing it belonged to the company.

FINDS LOST LOBE OF GOLD.

Prospector Tells Tale of Discovery.

Returns from Mohawk Range With Ore.

Expedition Going Out to File Claims.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) YUMA, (Ariz.) Dec. 8.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) If the claims of "Shorty" Morgan, itinerant prospector, are true, the famous lost lobe of the Mohawk Range Mountains in southern Yuma county, which has baffled exhaustive quest of many treasure seekers for years, has been discovered by him.

Morgan's story has the credence of reputable men of means who are to at once investigate the alleged find.

There are valuable paying mining properties in the Mohawk Range and many promising claims. Morgan went out over a month ago by a claim owner at Mohawk to do assessment work. Forgetting essential features of the directions given him, he failed to reach the claims he was sent to and wandered about in barren desert mountains for a month, endeavoring to find his goal and fulfill his obligations.

Finally, at a point in the extreme southern part of the Mohawk Range, twenty-one miles from Mohawk, he came upon the lobe of the Mohawk Range, which are frequently found in Arizona, formed by grouping loose rocks to mark meridian points. Taking a faint trail leading from this compass he claims to have come upon foot gold-bearing rock, of extreme richness, some nearly three-quarters pure metal. Selecting visible evidence of the find, Morgan sent to find his way back to Mohawk and did so.

Without financial means to return to find the claims, Morgan sought partnership in reaping the harvest of his discovery, and his story found a practical listener in Joseph Alvarado, Jr., Democratic candidate for County Recorder at the recent Yuma county election, and brother-in-law of Felix Mayhew, recently enriched to the amount of a half-million from the sale of the famous Mayhew strike mine.

Alvarado, who himself has properties of promise in Mohawk Range, and several companies will leave Yuma tomorrow to join Morgan and set out to stake claims at the scene of the discovery, and his story found a practical listener in Joseph Alvarado, Jr., Democratic candidate for County Recorder at the recent Yuma county election, and brother-in-law of Felix Mayhew, recently enriched to the amount of a half-million from the sale of the famous Mayhew strike mine.

remains of the burro taken to that place for decent interment.

When Scotty chartered a train from Los Angeles to Chicago about three years ago the baggage coach was given over to Morgan on the trip the burro was fed with the best to be secured. When adversity came Scotty still stuck to his burro.

It is now stated that Scotty has another mine in the Black Rock desert and was going there when his burro died.

William Stanley, who walked from San Francisco to Los Angeles, a distance of about 500 miles in 15 days and 25 minutes, recently, says that he can make the trip in nine and one-half days, or 23 hours.

Weston now holds the record, as he covered the distance in 10 days and 4 hours, but Stanley says that he can easily beat this mark as he wasted much time on his way down, and walked the last 500 miles with a sprained ankle, which he sustained in jumping over a conduit. Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight who beat Attell here recently, is waiting patiently for the feather-weight champion to decide whether he wants to fight again, and he says the whole question is up to Able. BREVITIES.

The Times Midwinter Number worth waiting for. Each succeeding year sees a marked improvement in the appearance, quality of text, beauty of illustrations and general typographical excellence of our Christmas Special. Months of labor by a corps of expert writers and photographers have resulted in a most interesting compilation of authentic descriptive articles about the whole Southwest, and their appearance in this single publication will be the crowning achievement of all the Times' successes in the publication of special numbers. The issue will consist of not less than 100 pages, in magazine form, with fifty full-page illustrations. You can render practical aid in the development of this country by a wide dissemination of this great newspaper. It will be far superior to anything of the kind published elsewhere in Los Angeles, and will be a splendid medium for real estate and development enterprise advertising.

Remember the slogan: "Buy and Boost Home Products." THE CHARIOT RACE.

BEN-HUR—VIII.

About the great gateway of the Circus of Antioch seemingly throngs all Antioch, watching the official procession as it enters. The Consul passes and the editor, their respective insignia of office borne before them, and legionaries. In full panoply, their standards displayed; noble ladies and liveried servants—and finally the rabble—Romans, Greeks, Jews and Arabs—but all grouped into two factions and shouting for their favorites, for Ben-Hur or for Messala. Messala in racing garb enters from the stalls to watch for Iras, upon whose conduct he is bent. She comes, accompanied by the modest Esther, followed by their father, Balthazar and Simoesides, borne in litters. Iras, contrary to the custom of the women of Antioch, is unveiled, and as the people gaze at her curiously, she exclaims in anger, "What a strange people! Saw they never a woman's face before?" Ben-Hur begs her to veil her face, but she scoffs at him and they part in anger. Simoesides gives Malloch, his secret agent, credentials for fifty talents to be used by Sanballat in the badgering of Messala into a wager against Ben-Hur at 8 to 1, which if Messala loses, will nearly beggar him. Over the course, through clouds of dust, with a sound of muffled thunder, the chariots of Ben-Hur and Messala, each drawn by four blooded horses, are driving for what to them is dearer than their lives—revenge. The walls of the arena, the stalls and crowded galleries with the vast concourse of excited spectators, whirl dizzily by. Messala bends far over his chariot; his horse sees to have wings; he is ahead—he shouts triumphantly. Ben-Hur has been cold and passive until he hears that derisive shout. Now he too leans far over his chariot. The four Arabian bays of Balthazar's litter draw the white and black Cappadocian steeds of Messala. At the turn Ben-Hur's horse is hurled forward in a great "spurt"; the wheel of Messala's chariot spins from its axle—Messala reels in his chariot and falls headlong under the feet of the plunging horses. Ben-Hur has won. The vast curve of the amphitheater stretches away from him with its widely cheering throng. Ben-Hur, in his chariot, before the Consul's great throne of state, receives the victor's crown amid the plaudits of the populace.

THE COMING OF THE KING.

Ben-Hur has returned to his ancestral home in the Holy City, bringing with him Simoesides and Esther from Antioch. Inspired by the faith of Balthazar, who was one of the three Wise Men to whom the coming of Christ had been disclosed by the Star of Bethlehem, Ben-Hur believes the Nazarene to be the temporal, but God-given King, whose coming has so long been foretold. To aid Christ when he shall declare himself King of the Jews, Ben-Hur has raised three legions of armed Galileans to overthrow the power of Rome. As he approaches Jerusalem, Ben-Hur meets him secretly, with his Galileans, and guards him. Ben-Hur returns to Jerusalem and relates to Simoesides the wonderful miracles performed by the Christ. Observation has convinced him that the Nazarene is not he who he took for the boy, now grown to manhood, who gave him the cup of water in Bethlehem when he was being dragged to the gallies, does not seek temporal power. The Nazarene will enter Jerusalem the next day, but not in state; with a multitude, but not with an army. The Galileans may return as they came, or there will be no sword drawn. Simoesides inquires if the reports of Him be false. Ben-Hur admonishes him not to judge too quickly, and relates in detail the wonderful things he has seen. Again referring to his meeting with Christ as a boy, Ben-Hur says: "I saw the same face, so full of pity; so meek, so far-seeing! The same brow, about which a halo seems to shine. But the face of a King? No! Meek with the meekness of a woman! Sorrowful, but with the foreknowledge of a martyr! The face of one born, not to rule, but to suffer, and I, fear, to die!"

LOVE AT SIGHT WINS
SCHENCK NEW BRIDE.

Miss Eva La Veen and Samuel Schenck, who will be married tomorrow at noon in the home of the bride-to-be.

SAMUEL SCHENCK, former police commissioner and well-known business man, will make a second venture on the sea of matrimony tomorrow at noon, when he will wed Miss Eva La Veen of No. 1311 Westlake avenue. The prospective bride is a comparative stranger in Los Angeles. She came here about a year ago from New York, bringing her mother, who was an invalid. Mrs. La Veen sold last January, and the daughter has been living very quietly since her bereavement. About four months ago Miss La Veen purchased a beautiful home on Westlake avenue, where the marriage will take place, and where the couple will reside on their return from a wedding journey to various northwestern points. Miss La Veen lived in Gotham nearly all her life before coming here through her father, who was a Parisian, Henri La Veen. The French ancestry is indicated strongly in the brown eyes and blonde hair of the bride-to-be, and her gowns have all the chic of Paris style. "It was a case of love at first sight," she said, referring to Mr. Schenck. "I met him last Christmas eve at a reception at the Alexandria, and I guess his love was a sort of Christmas present."

The marriage will be witnessed by members of the two families only. Mrs. Viggo Lerche, Miss La Veen's niece, acting as matron of honor. The bride will wear a Worth robe of Irish point lace, over liberty satin, while Mrs. Lerche will be in white embroidered chiffon. Rev. E. J. Harper, brother of the Mayor, and a special friend of Mr. Schenck, will perform the ceremony.

FEDERATE FOR IMPROVEMENT.
Associations of City Form Central Body Intended to Advance the Communal Interests.

At a meeting of the representatives of a number of local improvement associations at Caledonia Hall last night, steps were taken toward the organization of the United Improvement Associations of Los Angeles, a federation, the purpose of which will be to promote projects relating to the general welfare of the city, and to advance the interests of the community as a whole. It is expected that the 200 separate organizations in the city will become members of the central body. Delegations were present from the following named associations: Brooklyn avenue, Euclid Heights, South Side, University, Budsoning avenue, Garfield, Figueroa and Normandie, Fourth Ward, Manchester, and Rose-dale. On account of a misunderstanding regarding the place of meeting the representatives of many associations that have signified their intention to become members failed to appear.

The city charter amendments to be voted on at a special election next month will be the first subject taken up by the new organization. Other matters involving the public good will be considered from time to time, and on account of the association expressing in its actions the sentiment of a city-wide constituency, it is expected to become an important factor in determining municipal affairs. The idea of a federation was conceived by the Brooklyn Heights Association, which issued the invitation to the meeting held last night. C. H. Clayton was elected temporary chairman, and W. H. O'Connell of the South Side Association, temporary secretary. The following named were elected to draft a constitution and bylaws: L. R. Alderman, Samuel Young, F. S. Adams, W. S. Smiley, W. H. Loyd, Paul Olsen, B. P. Walker and A. M. Brown. W. H. McGill of the Fourth Ward Improvement Association was appointed assistant secretary. The next session will be held the 17th inst., and a committee was appointed to arrange for the place. It is expected that a permanent organization will be effected. Monthly meetings are to be held.

ODD FELLOWS ANNIVERSARY.
Semi-Tropic Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated its seventeenth anniversary last night, with a public meeting and dance in the hall on Figueroa street. The hall was crowded during the rendition of the following programme: Address of welcome, D. D. Deeds, history of Semi-Tropic Lodge, M. T. Herzog; address, "Odd Fellowship," F. E. Pierce; song,

CLIMBS IN THE SKY
SO FLAG MAY FLY.

Nevada Nabob's Joys Reach a Sudden Climax.

Wife of Few Months Returns Here to Mother.

After Futile Quest, Hubby Goes Back to Camp.

A story in two chapters of an interrupted dream of bliss. The first was written on August 20, less than four months ago, when Miss Alice B. Wilson, a popular young society girl of Los Angeles, became the wife of George B. Holleran of Goldfield, Nev. They were wed at Christ Church, Rev. Baker P. Lee officiating. The second, and last, installment has to do with the differences that sprang up between the pair within two weeks of the wedding, and the return of the young wife to the home of her mother, Mrs. E. A. Wilson, No. 2444 Budsoning avenue, and Holleran's unsuccessful attempt to locate her.

The denouement may be marked by divorce proceedings. It is reported from Goldfield that the troubles of the couple have been the subject of discussion there for the past six weeks, though the attorneys who are said to have been engaged refuse to make statements. It is believed there that a divorce suit has been secretly filed in some other county, or in California. The wedding of Miss Wilson and Mr. Holleran last summer was one of the social events. The attendance was small but select. Holleran made a fortune in the Goldfield district. He was a partner of Harry McMillan, who, a few months ago, came into some prominence as winner of the heart and hand of Edna Goodrich, the actress, but who afterward was married to Nat Goodwin. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Holleran left immediately for Goldfield, where they purchased the handsome Brewster home at a reported cost of $40,000. For about ten days of that blissful period, it is related by the historians of Goldfield, the establishment of the Hollerans was simply staid receptions and other functions. The pair seemed as happy as a pair of turtle doves. Holleran never once thought of donning his "bliss" shirt and returning to the old red flannel. Then came a rift in the lute. The dream was too fair to last. It is asserted that in the middle of a night following a joyous function, Mrs. Holleran fled from her handsome home, screaming for protection, and finding an asylum in the home of a neighbor.

The next morning she left Goldfield and came to Los Angeles to her mother, where she now is. Holleran soon followed, but he could not get his wife's ear, nor even touch her hand. So he returned to the deserted Goldfield mansion, upon which he had lavished so many hard-earned dollars, no doubt to meditate on the uncertainty of marriage. He had been up against "matted" mines and had grubstaked it through the arid wastes of Nevada, to die disappointed with "no color," but the marriage game was entirely too much for him. He mourns the loss of her, but she is obstinate and has shown no inclination to return to him. An effort was made last night to secure from Mrs. Holleran, or her mother, some additional details of the affair, but they have put up the bars against publicity, as well as against Holleran.

EIGHTEEN NEW CITIZENS.

White, special United States Attorney, was present to examine the applicants and to administer the oath. The new citizens are: Mr. White, Mr. Brown, Mr. Green, Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, Mr. Miller, Mr. Davis, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Moore, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Jackson, Mr. White, Mr. Brown, Mr. Green, Mr. Smith, Mr. Jones, Mr. Miller, Mr. Davis, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Moore, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Jackson.

TO DANCE FOR CHARITY.
Actors of Local Theaters Plan Swell Affair for the Benefit of Poorer Brothers.

Seekers for kind charity will wear swell clothes if the plans of the actors belonging to the Burbank, Belasco and Auditorium theaters in this city gang not apace. The members of these three stock companies have decided to give a dance, or a ball—call it what you please, for the benefit of the members of their profession who need the sheltering wing of the actors' fund.

But 200 tickets for the affair, which is scheduled for the first week in February, will be sold. The price, it shows that there are heights as well as depths of poverty among the play folk. The players announced it with bated breath as though unfamiliar with such stupendous sums. "We name that price, first because it includes supper for a couple, and second, because we want to keep off the fat."

MAY PUT ON A PADLOCK.
Property Holders Propose to Close the Port of Avalon.

(By Pacific Wireless.)
AVALON, Dec. 8.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Interest is at its height over the proposed action by the Santa Catalina Island Company and property holders here to make this place a closed port. No outsiders were admitted to the meeting held this evening, which was behind guarded doors. The attorneys for both sides were present and among those attending the meetings are E. H. Brewster, Los Angeles, F. Correy, Long Beach, Dr. Thomas of Pasadena, F. H. Ott, Corona, and Raymond Nestell, representative for J. Nestell, who is in New York City. The meeting was called to consider a proposition made by the property holders. They ask for certain concessions by the company if they undertake to petition the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county to abandon the county roads on the island and leave further improvements to be made by a committee of the property holders. About 50 per cent. of the property holders were present.

WITH straining necks and intense silence, several hundred persons on Broadway and New High street watched the spectacle yesterday afternoon, a man swinging below the spread eagle on the top of the Courthouse flagstaff, 225 feet above the ground. Like a huge black spider alternately expanding and contracting its feelers, J. Carrigan, the man who was making his way to the top of the bending pole, climbed steadily upward, grasping it with his hands, and frequently letting both legs swing free, as, sailor fashion, he sought to get a better hold to raise himself.

At times as the man swung out from the high rod that swayed under his weight, it looked as if he were about to lose his grip and fall to the steeply pitched roof below. But the climber went steadily on until he finally reached the block just under the eagle, 225 feet up. There he rove the rope that he had carried with him, and, having paused long enough to assure that it would not come free, started slowly but more easily down to the trap door in the roof of the tower. As he reached the roof, the watchers in the streets below gave signs of relief and clapped their hands.

Some weeks ago the rope was blown from its place, as it had become rotted by long use. As the flag must float there, it became necessary to reeve a new rope through the block just beneath the bronze eagle that spreads its wings seven feet wide. Carrigan applied for the job, and said he could fix the colors in their accustomed place without difficulty. The supervisors authorized payment of the $5 asked, and the climber went to work.

From the explanation about the tower, 16 feet above the ground, it was necessary to mount about twenty-seven feet in the tower to the trap door in the sharp-pitched roof, just at the foot of the staff. Here Carrigan fastened his ropes to the staff, and, with climbers' spikes attached to his legs, began the ascent. His first trip to the top of the pole was made shortly after 1 o'clock, but by an accident the rope slipped from a block and fell to the roof. Carrigan rested a time, and tried again, but a stiff wind arose, and after getting a time and a half necessary for him to come down. Then, after a third attempt, about 2 o'clock, the ascent began. It was made with safety, and Old Glory soon appeared in its accustomed place, waving in the breeze. Carrigan has had long experience as a sailor in the tops of tall masts swaying in the storms that sweep the ocean, and is almost as much at home in the air as on land. He enjoys taking a turn where he can feel the wind blow and the sticks bend under him as in other days, they bent while he was on the deep.

Carrigan's climb may not appear so great a feat to those who daily look upward at the Courthouse clock tower and then on beyond to the flagpole reaching forty feet higher, but those who noted what a diminutive speck the climber appeared against the sky gathered some idea of the lofty height of the big tick of wood from which Old Glory flies. Another noble golden bird, appearing no larger than a pigeon, as viewed from the feet from 25 to 30 and some day Carrigan, or another daring climber, will have to shin up the flagstaff with a pot of gold paints in his hands, or, rather, pull it up after him, and give the national bird another coat of gilt.

REPRESENTS THE GOVERNOR.
Santa Rosa Senator Says Chief Executive Favors Measures of Interest Here.

State Senator Walter E. Price of Santa Rosa is in the city for a few days, as the personal representative of the Governor. He has been present at the two days' session of the Southern California delegation, and expressed himself last night as much interested in various enactments proposed by citizens of this section. "Gov. Gillett, who is ill at his home, was very sorry that he was unable to come here," said Mr. Price. "He told me to represent him in a way, and told me that he was in hearty accord with all measures that are of paramount interest to the citizens of this portion of the State. He wants bills to pass that will raise the standard of good citizenship and increase the revenue of the State. As the expert of the State Board of Examiners, I am trying to gain information that will be of value later on. I intend visiting the institutions in Southern California that depend on State aid."

Senator Price stated that he has prepared a bill for introduction at the next session of the Legislature that will provide a State training school for orphans. He believes there should be a place where children without homes and, between 14 and 16 years old, can learn some useful occupation. He said that there are at present forty-five orphan asylums in the State that receive aid to the amount of $60,000 each year. But there is no trade school that will fit the boys and girls for some useful occupation before they are turned out upon their own resources. At the present time, State aid is not extended to orphanage after they reach 14 years.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The offering of Lewis S. Stone and his company at the Auditorium this week presents a drama of unusual interest. "The Only Way," Charles Dick's novel, is the basis of the action. BY COLETTE.

Physicians now shall gift be a hidden melody to you.

Venus is in trine with Jupiter. Mars is in benefic aspect with the moon.

A singularly auspicious twenty-four hour period is ushered in with this sign.

Bright prospects, both from a material and spiritual view, are over courtships, engagements and weddings this day. "Love and gold" are set in the sign.

An equally good aspect is over physicians and surgeons, whose hands are imbued with "helpful touch" today.

Deal with others freely. Travel for business or health.

Seek work especially before 6 p.m. At 9:15 a.m. herbs under Mars are good—all heal, gentian, horseradish, iocha, mustard, wormwood and bryony.

A lucky day for butchers, grocers, bakers, engineers, smiths, artificers, tailors, shoemakers, carpenters and civil officers.

Women should find this day highly fortunate for all undertakings, whether domestic or business. A good day to hire maids, bake and brew, and try new recipes especially if dealing with fish or fowl.

Prudence in a social entanglement is dictated for women with their birth-date today. The unmarried will get strange news from a strange place.

Hasty changes and speculative enterprises are ill-advised for men with this birth-date. Those in employment must heed that in which they are lacking.

Children are born this day under astrological signs that indicate activity. Girls will gain by striving after Rome. Boys will need training that will make them persevering.

THE WILD WIDOW

By GERTIE DE S. WENTWORTH-JAMES.

The Cincinnati Times-Star says: "Let us introduce the 'Wild Widow.' She comes from England, where Paul of 'Three Weeks' lived. Gertie De S. Wentworth-James is the authoress. It is frankly an unusual story that comes perilously near the jumping-off place into the realms of unbridled and virgin realism. It is passionate, palpitating and ingenious. The plot is unusual, and the English readers liked it much."

SPARE THE TREES. MOVE TO SAVE STATE FORESTS.

LEGISLATORS ASKED TO CREATE MORE STRINGENT LAWS.

Regulation of Timber-Cutting on Private Lands Suggested as One Way to Conserve Resources—Delegation to Riverside and Patton Today.

Many proposed new laws were presented yesterday for the consideration of the Southern California delegation to the Legislature who resumed their session at the Chamber of Commerce. The members will visit the insane asylum at Patton today, and later will arrange to inspect the State Cereus Experimental Station at Riverside and participate of a lunch at the Glenwood, as guests of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce.

Strong arguments were made for a law that will conserve the forests of the State, especially in the southern portion, and thus preserve the water sources. It was stated that the Supreme Court of Maine has recently decided that the State has power to pass laws regulating the cutting of timber on private lands. View of this precedent, it was argued that California could pass a law that will prevent the waste of forest areas and compel owners to exercise due care. Members of the Tri-County Reclamation Committee presented startling facts and figures in regard to the rapid diminution of forests in Southern California, due to the inroads of lumber companies. It was asserted that within a few decades the water supply of this section will be greatly diminished if the State does not exercise supervision of forests outside Federal reserves.

Griffith J. Griffith appeared in behalf of a prison reform and parole bill. In the first fourteen years of the existence of the parole law, he said, a yearly average of only thirteen prisoners secured liberty under its provisions.

"The trouble lies in the law," said Griffith. "It requires each applicant for parole to deposit $25 with the warden. He has to furnish his own clothes and railroad fare, and must have a position open to him. Nearly nine-tenths of those liberated are without means." Griffith also seeks the establishment of an adult reformatory, and is working for a law permitting indeterminate sentences.

The study of civic righteousness in the public schools was advocated by Mrs. Calvin Hartwell, representing the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena. She proposed that the study of the lives of great men and women should be made a part of the curriculum of the schools throughout the State. She suggested that appropriate text books be selected by a committee.

Prof. R. F. Smith made an urgent plea for the State Pathological Laboratory at Whittier and the Cereus Experiment Station at Riverside. He asked an appropriation of $50,000 for the next two years, to cover maintenance, salaries and other incidental expenses. He also asked for more equipment and additional ground space.

An increased appropriation was requested for the State Farmers' Institute, which provides lectures on agricultural subjects.

Charles F. Edson advocated a plan to furnish high-class concerts, and art lectures to Normal School pupils. He said the teachers should bear the heat and thus supplement their instruction in that branch of study.

Abbot Kinney of Venice proposed a bill to allow cities of the sixth class to apply the provision of the Urban Act to road building, saying the citizens of Venice had long been anxious to get a highway built through the city and Los Angeles, but that a few property owners had obstructed the move. He asked for a bill enabling cities of the sixth class to add to the tax levy for parks and roads.

Will D. Gould urged the adoption of a uniform system of township government throughout the State, patterned after the plan adopted in Vermont many years ago.

J. H. Blanchard asked the delegation to press the adoption of an amendment to the State Constitution, for the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

The legislators were much interested in an account of what is done to further the cause of good roads. It was suggested that the State should be divided for the maintenance of highways, after they are completed throughout the State. Southern California legislators are expected to lead the way in securing additional legislation in aid of various highway projects now on hand or soon to be taken up.

Dr. Walter Landley and other members of the State Medical Society strongly opposed any change in the present law regulating the practice of medicine. It was asserted that, though possibly severe in some of its provisions, the law as a whole aims principally to keep out incompetent practitioners.

PREFERS DEATH TO MONOTONY.
Tired of Compiling Endless Lists of Names, Man Turns on Gas Jets, Will Recover.

J. Q. Eastwood, compiler of the Los Angeles city directory, attempted to commit suicide by asphyxiation in his apartment at No. 2244 North Grand avenue, about 8 o'clock last night. When Mrs. Eastwood came home and smelled gas in the hallway she broke down the door with an ax and turned on the gas. After calling for the ambulance, Mrs. Eastwood ran to the residence of Dr. C. L. Garvin at No. 219 North Grand avenue. Her treatment was administered and within an hour Eastwood was pronounced out of danger.

In a note, Eastwood said he feared he would become a nervous wreck and cause his wife considerable suffering. Eastwood has been afflicted with a nervous ailment induced by the tedious work of compiling names. When he came home last night his wife was away and he locked the doors and closed the windows. After disrobing he turned on four gas jets and lay down on the bed. When Mrs. Eastwood broke open the door she found him unconscious and summoned assistance. Eastwood is 30 years old and had been employed by the directory company for several years.

MILTON.

A Sonnet by John M. Newkirk.

His blindness was no hindrance, for he saw
Through all the open windows of his soul,
Through mists of time the centuries unroll
To ages where no earth, formed by God's law,
Existed. He beheld the fallen ones
Forever banished from their high estate;
He saw the first creation; knew man's fate
And told the destiny of all earth's sons.

All this and blind! No need of mortal eyes.
They might have drawn him from his lofty theme
With vision of ambition and of power—
His blindness was a blessing in disguise.
So blind and blest, he could but sit and dream
His poem out line by line and hour by hour.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED. A complaint of obtaining $50 by false pretenses, lodged against H. L. Berkey by Joseph Dederichs, was dismissed by Justice Stephens yesterday at Berkey's preliminary examination. Dederichs said he paid the money in November, 1907, for a part interest in a lease on the Russell Fraction, Goldfield, which, Dederichs averred, Berkey falsely said he owned. Evidence was given by Berkey to show that he had negotiated for the lease in question.

CARLSON CASE CONTINUED. Miss Lila McKittrick, former cashier of the Consolidated Bank, identified yesterday the minutes of the directors' meetings, at W. E. Blames Elevator Operator in Department Store for Accident That Sent Her to Court in Invalid Chair. Defends Offers Testimony to Show That She Was Negligent.

Seated in an invalid chair in Judge House's court yesterday, Mrs. Frances A. Judd, testified with limited testimony given by eyewitnesses of an elevator accident on February 21 last, by which she sustained severe injuries to her left leg. She is suing Arthur Lettis, proprietor of the Broadway Department Store, for $53,300 damages.

Judd was employed as a saleswoman in the shoe department of the store at the time of the accident. The witness was so agitated that she was unable to give very clear testimony. She said, in substance, that about 4 o'clock of the day of the accident she went to the second-floor elevator entrance with Mrs. Blanche S. Field, another saleswoman. Mrs. Judd stepped into the elevator to go to the cloakroom on the fourth floor. The elevator man closed the cage door, denying entrance to Mrs. Field. A dispute arose between the latter and the operator, and the elevator started.

Mrs. Judd said her skirt was caught under the door, and that she was unable to get out. She said she heard Mrs. Field scream and saw her sink to her knees. Then Mrs. Field turned away and saw no more. She could not say whether or not Mrs. Judd's dress was caught in the door. Mrs. Judd said she saw Mrs. Field's face and saw her sink to her knees. Then Mrs. Field turned away and saw no more. She could not say whether or not Mrs. Judd's dress was caught in the door.

Mrs. Field told of her dispute with the operator, B. J. Pryor, and said she threatened to report him. He replied that he had to observe the rules as to over-crowding the elevator. After the car started, Mrs. Field said she heard Mrs. Judd scream and saw her sink to her knees. Then Mrs. Field turned away and saw no more. She could not say whether or not Mrs. Judd's dress was caught in the door.

Mrs. J. E. Jenkins testified that it has been necessary to remove two inches of bone from Mrs. Judd's leg, and that she will be permanently crippled. The first witness called by the defense was C. E. Woodward, electrical superintendent of the store. He ex-

HIS DEADLY VENGEANCE.

Husband Shoots Actor Three Times and Escapes With Wife Home.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Adrian von Plank, an actor, playing at the Union Theater with the Cunningham stock troupe, was fatally shot this evening by E. Newton Blacker, a prominent transfer man, in Von Plank's apartments in the Grand Hotel. Blacker claims he traced his wife to Von Plank's room and she was in the room when Blacker broke in the glass pane of the door with the butt of his revolver.

Von Plank was unarmed, but made a desperate defense, attacking Blacker with a chair. He knocked the gun from Blacker's hand, but the latter retained possession of the weapon and fired five shots, three of the bullets going through Von Plank's body. He fell, and is now at the St. Claire Hospital in a critical condition.

After the shooting Blacker coolly pocketed his gun and allowed his wife to partially dress and escorted her bareheaded to their home. As they passed the hotel office, Blacker remarked to the clerk, Frank Gunn: "I think you'll find a dead man up in room No. 78."

Oster yesterday gave judgment in favor of Mrs. Bella G. Rogers, who sued McClay & Black to set aside a contract of exchange by which on September 1 she traded her forty-five horse-power Pierce automobile for the defendant's thirty horse-power automobile, with $500 boot. Mrs. Rogers asserted that the defendant falsely represented their machine to be in first class condition, while it really was about worn out.

IS EASILY MIXED BY ANYONE HERE WHO CAN READ THE DIRECTIONS

Tells of Simple Prescription for Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble Which Relieves Nearly Every Person Who Tries It—Times' Readers Should Cut This Out and Save It or Hand to Some Afflicted One Who Needs It.

The following prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles has no doubt been filled millions of times, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumbler of water after each dose. It is stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially in the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic conditions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swelling.

A well-known authority states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys; cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism.

If your back or sides ache and you suspect kidney trouble, it would be wise to try this for a few days.

Market Develops Weakness Because of Bearish Tone in Government Report, but Wheat Holders Begin to Buy Strongly as Report Quickly Apparent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Following a brief recovery from the weakness caused by high leaders, the wheat market showed weakness toward the end of the day owing to renewed selling of shorts. The market was somewhat better before the decline was checked and dropped like to to from the high price of 1.02 1/2. The market apparently recovered when leading holders began to cover, but prices promptly rebounded to almost former position. The upturn was aided by reports that the U. S. had sold 1,000,000 bushels in the world's market. Cables were weak and the market was reported favorable for the morning. Prices were generally steady, but the December declined relatively the weakest movement, and the market was weak in May at 85 1/2-86 1/8.

Liquidation of the December delivery carried the price of that option to 85 1/2. The market was weak in the terminal, was the feature of trade in the market. The market closed steady with December at 85 1/2-86 1/8.

The severe slump in wheat caused weakness in oats early, but a substantial recovery occurred later. The market closed steady with oats at 85 1/2-86 1/8.

Provisions were quiet and steady.
